Specialists in Corporate Advisory and Compliance Services

The Differentiating Point

Organizations understand that an employee's effort and time are very precious. To put it in other words, spending time in internal processes or non-value-added (NVA) activities is a complete loss as that time could have been spent on revenue-generating activities.

We, at IMC, help you in cutting your routine tasks and hence freeing up the management time, which can be then spent in key processes. Obviously, this translates in reducing resourcing costs and enhancing controls, and improvement to processes we are offering. We partner with you in defining best business processes in providing useful management information, at the right time to enable you to make best and informed decisions. We transform your enterprise as a business partner who holds your hand to strategize after understanding your business and operating structure.

Our Operational Framework

We work with a diverse set of clients who have varying work and operations culture and offer customized operational models.

We

Use your existing systems or can also work on our own platforms.

Engage with our clients on a continuous basis or can take up specific short-term assignments or challenges.

Can work out of your offices or can work in our office remotely too.

Tailor or adapt management reports and their frequency to be very detailed or summarized.

Please feel free to give us a call – it could be for some quick decision-making or advice or may be a long-term assignment; and that too for a small proportion of cost as compared to of sourcing all this in-house.
