Case Study: Leading Technology Company in the United States of America

Case Overview

The client is one of the leading technology companies in the USA with a global presence in over 100 countries. The company develops and provides a wide variety of hardware and software products. Their major product line includes computers, servers, storage devices, printers and networking products among others.

With over 3 lakh employees and global presence, it was challenging for the leading technology to effectively maintain a mobility programme. Therefore the company decided to outsource this service and engaged IMC Group for the same.

Solution Provided by IMC Group

- PRO Services
- Designing effective mobility programme
- Delivering end to end mobility solutions

IMC Group assisted the client in designing an efficient and effective mobility programme which met their requirements and fulfilled their objective. We have introduced significant policy and process enhancements which positively impacted the company's relocation programme. We have helped in reducing the overall cost for the company by streamlining the processes. With our team of highly skilled and experienced experts, we have provided a comprehensive level of control over the entire mobility process of the company. We have assisted the client in smoothly navigating within and outside the region.

Apart from the above services, we also helped the client in arranging for the employee's visa, getting necessary attestations and clearing documents. Our services led to the overall satisfaction of the company and their employees. The employees feel more comfortable and at ease when they relocate to a foreign land. This has strengthened the company's growth and has helped the company scale their operations to greater heights.
